

Wayne Anderson

Partner

Wayne has been practicing law for over 25 years. He began practicing in 1977 when he joined the Army's Judge Advocate General's Corp (JAG). While in the Army, as a prosecutor and defense counsel, Wayne tried numerous criminal law cases involving drugs, rape, assault, larceny, and murder. His expertise in military law was recognized by his appointment as an assistant professor of military law and chief of criminal law. Throughout his twenty year military career, Wayne tried cases and mentored junior trial attorneys. After a distinguished military career, Wayne started his own practice specializing in criminal law, family law, and civil litigation. Wayne joined Richard Travis to form Anderson & Travis in 1999. Wayne graduated Magna Cum Laude from the University of Utah in 1974 with a major in political science and from the University of Utah College of Law in 1977. Wayne is admitted to the Utah Bar (currently on inactive status) and is a licensed Colorado lawyer. He is a member of the Colorado Criminal Defense Bar.

Richard Travis

Managing Partner

Richard has been practicing law for over 12 years. He began practicing in a small Boston firm and then joined the Army's Judge Advocate General's Corp (JAG). While in the JAG Corp, Richard provided legal assistance to military personnel and their dependents. He also represented Evans Army Community Hospital in cases involving medical malpractice. As a prosecutor, Richard tried numerous criminal law cases involving rape, assault, child abuse, involuntary manslaughter, and murder. After a successful career in the Army, Richard joined the 18th Judicial District Attorney's Office in Arapahoe and Douglas counties. There, Richard tried cases involving driving under the influence of alcohol/drugs and domestic violence. Richard joined Wayne Anderson to form Anderson & Travis in 1999. Richard graduated from Bates College in 1989, with a double major in history and psychology, and from Widener University School of Law in 1992. Richard is a licensed Colorado lawyer, as well as licensed to practice law in Massachusetts and an inactive member of the Maine Bar. He is also a member of the Colorado Criminal Defense Bar, Colorado Trial Lawyers Association, and the Inns of Court.
